LOCATION

Belstone is widely regarded as one of Dartmoor's most beautiful and desirable villages. Dating back to the Domesday Book, this ancient granite settlement sits on the northern edge of Dartmoor National Park beneath the spectacular backdrop of Belstone Tor and Cosdon Hill.

The village offers immediate access to some of England's finest walking, cycling, horse riding and outdoor pursuits, attracting visitors throughout the year whilst retaining a thriving local community. Wild ponies, open moorland, granite tors and breathtaking panoramic views create a setting that is instantly recognisable and quite unlike anywhere else in Devon.

Despite its idyllic rural setting, Belstone is very accessible, lying approximately four miles from Okehampton and only a short distance from the A30 Devon Expressway, providing fast links to Exeter, the M5 and Cornwall.

The Tors Inn occupies arguably the finest trading position within the village, overlooking Belstone's famous village green with uninterrupted views across the open moor. Whether serving walkers returning from Dartmoor, families enjoying summer evenings or locals gathering around roaring fires during winter months, the inn provides an authentic Dartmoor experience that very few venues can match.
